

On two occasions now I have received telephone calls from India attempting to see me a product. I asked the callers if they were calling from an offshore location and I was advised that the caller was calling from India after i noted a foreign accent from the callers.

I advised the callers that I was on the Colorado no call list and the federal no call list. The callers told me that the no callers list only applied to callers inside the USA and did not affect callers from foreign countries like India. At this point I advised these callers not to call me again. Thank you.
